Seeking solution to health-care crisis

W. Trent Steele

President, FoundCare West Palm Beach

Posted April 28 2007

Cover the Uninsured Week ran from last Monday through Sunday. The focus of this national week is demonstrating broad support for the the need to cover America's uninsured children and adults and to demand that our nation's leaders find solutions for the nearly 45 million Americans living without health insurance.

The health-care situation in Palm Beach County is affected by many issues: overuse of emergency rooms, lack of health-care professionals and specialists, lack of access to care by low- and moderate-income individuals and families. With 225,000 children and adults in Palm Beach County living without -- or with very limited -- health insurance, we cannot afford to ignore this issue.

FoundCare is doing what it can to deal with this issue with the goal of its new Community Health Center (CHC), operated by the Florida Community Centers, to provide access to high-quality primary and preventive care for children and adults who are uninsured and underinsured.

FoundCare has been working diligently to raise awareness and funds for this new Community Health Center, which will be built in Palm Springs on Congress Avenue, south of Forest Hill Boulevard.
